INVESTMENT POLICY

The management objective aims to achieve, based on a minimum investment term of five years, a performance greater than the Euro Stoxx index, net dividends reinvested.

FUND MANAGERS COMMENT

The market rise that started in January continued in February, driven by the increasing likelihood of a US-China trade agreement, a lull in Europe on the social and political fronts, the possibility of a Brexit delay and a general improvement in most emerging countries. In addition, there were few very bad surprises in the annual earnings releases. The fund finally ended the month with a slight 2bp outperformance compared with the index at +4,17%, i.e. +8,92% since the beginning of the year. In February, it was hurt by negative stock picks in media, with Publicis down following its earnings release, as well as in healthcare with UCB, Sanofi and Merck KGaA all underperforming, but it benefited from the strong rebounds of Amundi in financial services, of Heineken, which performed well following its earnings release, and of AkzoNobel and ING, as well as from the absence of utilities. It was also underpinned by strong stock picks in industrial goods, consumer goods and transport.
