FUND MANAGERS' COMMENT - Arnaud BRILLOIS

During the month of April 2020, Lazard Convertible Global TD GBP share class returned 5,18% versus 4,46% for its benchmark (Thomson Reuters Convertible Global Focus GBP). The fund's equity sensitivity has significantly increased during the period, standing at 57.0% vs 51.1% for the benchmark at the end of the month. The fund's absolute and relative performances benefited from the rebound of the equity market, thanks to the overweight on equity sensitivity reinstated during the second half of March. Modified duration slightly decreased over the month and remains higher than the benchmark, standing at 2.68 versus 2.27. Our higher sensitivity to interest rates was slightly additive to relative performance. Credit spreads tightening both in the US and Europe was additive to absolute performance over the month but to a lower extent than the benchmark as the fund carries less credit exposure. Security selections in the US automotive sector, semiconductors, e-commerce, US banks and software strongly added to relative performance. Our underweight to a specific online US retailer and US healthcare product manufacturers detracted to relative performance. Over the month, we decreased our exposure to the European aeronautic sector, entertainment services, chemicals and food retailing. We increased our exposure to US and European semiconductors, US e-commerce, cloud and software, streaming services and mobile payment solutions. We maintained our overweight exposure to the dollar and the Swiss franc against all other currencies over the month.
