MANAGEMENT

■ INVESTMENT POLICY

The fund's target is to reach, over a recommended investment 5-year period, a greater return net of fees than the Refinitiv/Thomson Reuters Global Focus Hedged (USD) Convertible Bond Index in US Dollar, hedged against a foreign exchange risk, the US Dollar being the reference currency with reinvested net coupons. The stock returns may be adjusted by possible foreign exchange hedging costs.

■ FUND MANAGERS' COMMENT - Arnaud BRILLOIS

During the month of April 2021, Lazard Convertible Global RC H USD share class returned 1,07% versus 1,34% for its benchmark (Refinitiv/Thomson Reuters Global Focus Convertible Hedged USD). The fund's equity sensitivity slightly decreased in absolute and relative terms during the period, standing at 63.0% versus 53.2% for the benchmark at the end of the month. Our equity exposure overweight added to relative performance overall: US overweight and Asia added while underweight to Europe detracted. Modified duration slightly decreased over the month, while remaining below the benchmark, standing at 1.97 versus 2.31. Sensitivity to interest rates had a slightly positive absolute impact with lower US interest rates while relative performance was neutral. Continued credit spreads tightening both in the US and Europe, in the high yield space in particular, slightly added to absolute performance and was neutral to relative performance. Security selections in US software and internet applications added to relative performance while consumer cyclical names and semiconductors cost us over the month. Our underweight to media/communications, a specific benchmark name, which we exclude from our investable universe for credit reasons, continued to detract to relative performance in April. Over the month, we took some profits in European materials, reduced our exposure to pharmaceuticals and increased our exposure to healthcare equipment services, software and automotive. We also added a new position in airlines, from a very active primary market.
