MANAGEMENT

■ INVESTMENT POLICY

The fund's target is to reach, over a recommended investment 5-year period, a greater return net of fees than the Thomson Reuters Global Focus Hedged (EUR) Convertible Bond Index in euros, hedged against a foreign exchange risk, the euro being the reference currency with reinvested net coupons. The stock returns may be adjusted by possible foreign exchange hedging costs.

■ FUND MANAGERS' COMMENT - Arnaud BRILLOIS

During the month of January 2020, Lazard Convertible Global RC H EUR share class returned 2,14% versus 1,61% for its benchmark (Thomson Reuters Convertible Global Focus Euro Hedged). The fund's equity sensitivity slightly increased during the period, currently standing at 52.0%, the benchmark's equity exposure decreased, now standing at 42.7%. Modified duration increased over the month and remains higher than the benchmark, standing at 2.68 versus 2.28. Security selections in US auto manufacturers, banks, software and Chinese communications added to relative performance. Selections in Asia and our underweight to Chinese semiconductors detracted to relative performance. Wirecard, present in the benchmark but absent from the fund, is recovering from a very sharp drop last year with new top management nominations in January, this had a negative relative impact. Our higher equity exposure compared to the index had a positive relative impact. Sensitivity to interest rates was also positive to relative performance with lower US and European rates. Over the month, we reduced our exposure to European consumer discretionary (Kering, LVMH) with concerns about the coronavirus propagation. We took some profits in the US automotive sector and reduced our exposure to European semiconductors. We sold a number of low delta and close-to-maturity names in Japan and Europe. We increased our exposure to US healthcare (DNA analysis and biopharma), slightly increased technology (software, LED manufacturers) and e-commerce exposures. We increased our exposure to Asia with convex names in the Chinese educational sector. We also increased our exposure to European energy.
